Dear Oregon Trail Families,

Thank you for your patience and support as we address this emergent situation. I know you have many questions. I don't have all the answers today, but I promise to communicate with you often as we solidify plans for delivering services to students and families over this prolonged school closure. We aim to do everything possible to support our students. We will have supplemental resources available for students after spring break that could include online resources and/or academic activity packets. We continue to coordinate with the Oregon Department of Education (ODE), and are waiting for their guidance on how best to meet the standards of a free appropriate public education for all students. ODE has made seniors and other high school students a priority in determining what their next steps will be.

The state board of education is meeting tomorrow to define the parameters of supplemental instruction and what it might look like for schools. We will inform you as we learn more.
